

Julie Jones is Dean of Gateway Academy, a school for students with social and learning differences. She is a Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist-Supervisor, Licensed Professional Counselor-Supervisor and doctoral student. She regularly speaks on current topics including challenges of social technology, ethics and college tracking for the learning differentiated student.

Michele Joseph is Head of School for Gateway Academy. With more than two decades of special education leadership, she has deep relationships with people who are both living with and impacted by those with differences.

Gateway Academy Educational Outreach

April 29, 2015
8 - 9:15 a.m.

Graduate Survey Outcomes

The Gateway Academy
3721 Dacoma Street
Houston, TX 77092
713-659-7900

www.thegatewayacademy.org

What are young adult trends in college, social, vocational, exercise and living experiences for people who have social and learning differences?

With almost a decade of graduates, we will reveal actual trajectories of Houston area young adults with social and learning differences. We will share what we have learned and then explain the national data trends to support it.

Along our path, we've learned a few hard truths. We believe we have some key reasons why some young adults experience adult life with steady success and others seem to maintain a continuous path of behavior, including patterns of isolation, impulsivity and rejection.

The presentation will conclude with action steps parents can use today, whether they have a child of 14 or a child of 22.

Find out with this FREE presentation

